The mission of the GLOBSEC Forum is to put Central Europe on the radar screen of major European and North American capitals and to link the strategic transatlantic thinking with Central European perspectives. ### TRANSATLANTIC COMMUNITY THAT MATTERS

During the last five years, GLOBSEC has become the meeting place of key figures of international community that have substantial influence on security and foreign policy agenda in Europe and North America. GLOBSEC gathers people of great ideas, influence and vision. The conference is attended by several ministers of foreign affairs and defence each year, representatives of international organisations, important European and US diplomats, academics and experts from the most influential think-tanks from Berlin, Brussels, London, Paris or Washington, as well as important journalists from international media. Our last GLOBSEC 2010 Forum was attended by six European foreign ministers, OSCE Secretary General, European Commissioner for Enlargement and Neighbourhood Policy and many other influential guests.

MORE THAN A FORUM: CREATING TRUE IMPACT

This forum represents more than interesting debate sessions, it creates a real impact. GLOBSEC has developed a comprehensive approach which makes vision and ideas influence official policies. With its unique program of side meetings and accompanying closed policy sessions, it has built up a capability to shape international policies and the transatlantic strategic thinking. The debate at GLOBSEC does not stay only in the main conference hall, it continues behind the scenes in closed circles of policy sessions creating real impact. Bilateral and multilateral political meetings and various focused policy sessions of experts and politicians represent a comprehensive approach that makes difference.

GLOBSEC 2011: VISEGRAD YEAR IN EUROPE

GLOBSEC 2011 will be political even more relevant and medially more attractive than its previous editions. Slovakia chairs the Visegrad Group. Moreover, two Central European countries will assume the EU presidency in 2011 – Hungary and later Poland. This will create a unique political dynamics in Central Europe that will allow GLOBSEC to shape the strategic debate in the region at the best possible time. GLOBSEC 2011 will thus become a platform for a joint meeting of foreign ministers, policy shapers and decision makers from V4 countries Europe and North America again.

IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE OFFICIAL MEETING OF VISEGRAD AND EU EASTERN PARTNERSHIP COUNTRIES' FOREIGN MINISTERS

GLOBSEC 2011 will have also higher political importance since it will be organized in conjunction with the official meeting of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the Visegrad Group (Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland, Slovakia) and EU's Eastern Partnership countries (Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belorussia, Georgia, Moldova and Ukraine) during the Slovak Visegrad presidency. GLOBSEC 2011 will thus utilize the presence of several foreign ministers, key policy advisers and policy shapers as well as the presence of the international media and create an independent platform for in-depth policy discussions.
